GENERAL NOTICES.

Advice to Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best-known remedy for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal, it is among the most distressing and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cure of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Ralm a few years and The success of the trans-Balm a few years ago. PROHIBITION CONVENTION. John Bidwell Accepts the Nomination for Governor. San Francisco, April 10th .- The Prohi ition Convention assembled again at 9 o'clock this morning. The old questio of admitting proxies was again brought their counties.

so as to allow the nomination of a State Central Committee, to consist of 100 mempers, one from each county, and the others from the State at large. A recess was taken to allow the county delegations to agree upon those whom they wished to represent them in the State Central Committee.

The order of business was then changed

Upon reassembling the following were amed by the different delegations: Alameda, T. L. Hierlihy; Amador, M. L. Gregg; Butte, George Fresher; Contra Costa, Volney Taylor; Fresno, Newel; Wright; Lake, Rev. L. Ewing; Los Angeles, W. D. Gould; Marin, C. F. Coy; Mendocino, J. M. Ward; Merced, A. M. 11. Taxes payable half yearly.
12. The management of all railroad and telgraph lines by the Government, and the establishment from the control of the contro hment of postal banks. 13 Election of United States Senators by diect vote of the people.

14. Modification of the naturalization laws, requiring longer residence.

15. An educational test for the right to the suffrage, and extending the right to women.

16. Congratulating the Woman's Christian Temperance Union as being the most successful ally of the party.

17. The enactment of a law providing for one lay's rest a week and the absolute stoppage of sale of liquor on that day. 18. Opposing the proxy system and instructing the State Central Committee to admit no proxies at their meetings.

A motion was made to take up the plat form seriatim. This motion being carried, the different planks were dropped into place with great rapidity until the one in relation to the Saturday half-holiday was reached, when objection was made to it that it would give the workingmen a chance to spend their week's salary in a half a day. Protestors against the assertion sprang up rapidly and denounced it, saying that the riotous and sporting elements of this and other large cities were not composed of the workingmen, but the wealthy and middle classes. The plank was then adopted. The next discussion occurred over the plank requiring taxes to be paid half-yearly, but, like the other one, it was concurred in. A strenuous fight occurred over the Sunday-law question. Several speakers advocated the plank, while those opposed to it were few and far between. He did not know that he was going to be Governor of the State of California, as that would be too great an honor for him; but if he were Governor he would not be afraid to veto a bad bill, but would be afraid to give unlimited pardons to convicts in the State prisons. He further informed the Convention that he would not be able to stump the State for the party, as he would be absent during June, July, August and September.

The Convention then adjourned until The Convention upon reassembling this afternoon voted down a resolution striking out that portion of it relating to the closing of saloons on "rest day." ANOTHER ROBBERY.

vous for Highwaymen. AUBURN, April 10th .- As Ira Burke was coming up the grade to day with a six-horse team he was held up by a highwaynan. Burke got off the wagon to get drink of water when a man with a flousack over his head came out of the brush and demanded his money. After a parley ne gave him $5.

Placer County Getting to be a Rendez-

The robber insisted that Burke had more when the robber was directed to get in under the wagon cover and get the coin out of the box. While the robber was in the wagon and under the heavy canvas cover jumped on the single-trees and started his team off on a dead run. The robber called on him to stop or he would shoot, but instead of stopping Burke urged his team on. The robber, then thinking that Burke was on the seat, fired two charges through it, but it went wide of its intended mark. The entire seat was torn to pieces, but the shots only accelerated he speed of the horses. After running a mile Burke stopped his team, but the robber was nowhere to be seen. He had no doubt dropped out a half a mile or more down the grade. Burke had with him $85, and considers he escaped very lucky.

From the description of the robber it is the smallest one of the two who robbed the Michigan Bluff stage a few days since. These robberies are getting quite frequent in this section. A posse of officers and men are beating the brush for the robber.

DEATH OF DR. BACHE.

Descendant of Benjamin Franklin Quietly Passes Away.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10th .- At 12:30 clock last night at St. Luke's Hospital, died Charles Meigs Bache, a son of Dr. Franklin Bache of Philadelphia, and a great-great grandson of the philosopher and patriot, Benjamin Franklin. The deceased entered the United States Coast survey in 1851, and served in various grades on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts until the late civil war, when he was temporarily detailed for duty as Military Topographer on the staff of General William B. Frank-lin. En route under orders from Philadelphia to San Francisco, he was stricken by an attack of cerebral apoplexy, resulting in partial paralysis and impaired articulation. He reached this city on March 31st, and was at once taken by his Coast Survey friends to St. Luke's Hospital, where, after hovering between death and life for ten days, without apparent suffer-ing, he breathed his last.

His wife and eldest son—the latter one of three children—had been notified by telegram of his sudden illness and hastened to join him in San Francisco. These two of his family were present in his last

THE MENACE TO THE RIVER.

It is stated by citizens who claim to have made examinations that in the Paine break, on the Yolo shore, below this city, there is now a channel leading out of the river, through the break, two feet lower than low-water mark, and through which the river is pouring into the basin. This, if fact, is fraught with immense importance. It means in plain English that if something is not done to close that artificial channel, or to check the flow at least, that when low water is reached the navigation of the Sacramento river will cease. It means more than that. If the break were closed now, or in a few weeks, so as to throw the volume of the river into its original channel, the scouring of the stream would greatly improve the navigability of the river; the small farmers on the lowlands who have been flooded out could still this season get a good crop of vegetables, alfalfa and like produce, and the whole of which is related to the trade of this city and of San Francisco.

Three months ago Congress, by special resolution, released $110,000 of the river appropriation, and directed the resident engineers to proceed to work with that sum upon the break. They advertised for the placing of mattresses to prevent further cutting. Bids were submitted which the engineers deemed too high, and they therefore reported to Washington for further orders. There the matter rests. Ninety days have elapsed, and really nothing has been done. If the break were closed, or even partially closed, within the next four or five weeks, the gain to the sufferers on low land would amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars, and the river would carry a vastly greater volume of water than it is now charged with below the break, and thus greatly improve itself.

It has been argued, we are informed, that the current in the break is too powerful to permit of operations in it. On the other hand, it is said that parties stand ready to demonstrate that this is error and that barges can be so secured that work can be prosecuted from them. At any 1 ate, there is a feeling that the neglect of the break until low water is reached will result in such bars forming as will require an immense sum and a long time to remove, and will put an end to navigation for the season of 1890 if not for two years. It is assumed that were the channel in the sent down stream would do scouring of immense value and really save the Government money.

entertained by many well advised people This is probably unjust judgment, but cerhope of securing a River Commission from possible to convince the Eastern Congressmen of the importance of the Sacramento It is related that at one of the recent sesone of the California delegates sent on by was as large or as important a stream as the Potomac. His astonishment was great morrow, where he goes for the purpose of when it was demonstrated that the Sacra- consulting with Governor Waterman. mento is really a greater stream than the Susquehanna and the Potomac combined; that it drains a larger area of country, and is navigable a greater distance than the combined navigable mileage and drainage of the two rivers named.

But if it is true that at this time, as is asserted by those who have examined the situation, that there is a channel in the Paine break through which a two feet below the level of low water mediate representations to be made at headquarters at Washington, accompanying a petition for instant examination, and best engineering science can devise. If, however, the matter, after such representation, is referred back to the army officers, the impression will be renewed that little of practical value will be speedily done. And we reflect only the common judgment of the river communities in that expression. The integrity of these army engineers is not impugned, but since their judgment appears to be diametrically opperienced observers of the natural history of the river for thirty and forty years, and is opposed to the testimony of all the river pilots and navigators, it is submitted tion may aid us in securing.

A DECAYING INDUSTRY.

It appears that the woolen manufactories of California are doomed. The unfortunate experience of Sacramento capitalists is still fresh in the minds of our people. Recently the woolen mills located at Woodland were advertised to be sold at public auction. The property consists of three and a half acres, and brick buildings, together with first-class machinery for two sets, all complete and in working order. It is said this property cost over $40,000, but must be sold at any sacrifice.

E. S. Heller, one of the agents of the Marysville Woolen Mills, declared recently in an interview that there are too many mills in the State-more than the State can afford. This is a very remarkable statement. Is it true we are manufacturing all the woolen goods we wear? Is it true that we have stopped the importation entirely of woolen fabrics? By no means. The real truth is that a better class of wool than is raised in California is a factor in the case, and that the tariff is so high on this indispensable article tosuccessful manufacturers that woolen manufacture is at an end. Quoting these experienced manufacturers, we find them saying that we have always made only one kind of goods in California, and in order to make goods with profit, we must manufacture a finer grade; to do this we must use a finer class of wools. In short, in order to make this kind of goods, they are bliged to use foreign wools. We cannot to that here with the present tariff.

protective tariff is to promote manufactures, what is to be said of a tariff which eventually closes the woolen mills of the State of | Science and Theology-The Demand for California? The woolen manufacturers of the State advise the repeal of the high tariff, and yet are not amenable to the charge of being in favor of free trade. In many respects the present protective tariff is arresting development in this State, because it is ill-advised. Whatever increases the cost of raw materials is an obstacle to the successful prosecution of manufactures. The manufactured article has its price, and labor to be expended upon the raw material used in any species of manufacture has a wider margin if expended upon cheap materials. The chief value of manufactories resides in the fact that they are a method of adding value to the raw materials. If the raw materials themselves have a high value, the margin to be added is proportionately narrow.

The testimony of the best manufacturers of California is that the tariff upon highgrade wools has prevented the manufacture of the low-grade wools which we ourselves produce. Thus a tariff designed to promote the acquirement of mechanical skill, to increase our industrial resources, to give employment to our people, closes up the factories and drives our people out of the business and discharges the employes, to swell the ranks of the unemployed.

OUR WINE INTERESTS.

Special Census Commissioner Ap pointed for California. Colonel H. Gardner, of New York, Spe cial Agent of the Government on Viticultural Statistics for the eleventh census, and who was appointed specially for the purpose of examining into the viticultural interests of California, arrived from the East yesterday for the purpose of entering upon his duties. The Colonel, upon being interviewed last evening by a RECORD-UNION eporter, said:
"Yes, I am sent out to California for the purpose of thoroughly examining into and eporting to the Superintendent of Census all facts and data that can be collected with regard to your viticultural interests. may say that before leaving Washington made an effort to secure some reliable information from the tenth census, as a basis to work upon, but to my surprise found no records of any value, although at the time, as I have learned from other sources, there was invested in that industry alone some $50,000,000, with an annual output of $6,000,000. The facts are, the grape growing interest of California has become of such importance, in its relationship to the industries of the country, that the work which I am assigned to is to be separate and independent of that to be performed by the Supervisors of Census appointed for your State. "The most complete information covering the raisin interests, which will be a matter of special inquiry, will be closely examined into, also the area and production break closed, or the flow through it even of vineyards, values of property and prodchecked, the greater volume of water ucts, profits and investments, distribution and cost of labor, distribution of varieties,

A LATE LINE FROM HAYES.

The Corrective Properties of the Juices of California's Vegetable Alteratives Almost Sensational.

A lady formerly of 1221 Mission St., but now of 400 Hayes St., S. F., writes to the Edwin W. Joy Co. as follows: "Mrs. H. T. Beverly, of Seattle, resided with me last winter. She had long been a sufferer from dyspepsia and waterbrash. Her stomach was so weak that for months at a time she lived principally upon milk and the white of eggs. She tried one of the mineral sarsaparillas only to find that it gave her pains in the head and weak sinking spells. Having taken Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla myself with great benefit in stomach troubles, I induced her to discard the potash preparation and try your Vegetable compound. It began reinvigorating her stomach and in a short time helped her astonishingly. It improved her to that extent, that just before she left, she was beginning to return to solid food. She authorized me to write you this statement accordingly."

EGOTISM. Now, since the distinctive object of a THE POSITION OF THE CHRISTIAN > CHURCH TO-DAY Scholarship - Need for the People > > to do Their Own Thinking.

EDS. RECORD UNION: I cannot commend too highly the tone of the editorial in your Saturday morning's issue, striking as it does so directly at the vital spot of modern egotism. In conversation, a few years since, with a highly educated man of this city, now deceased, he remarked that people are learning to think for themselves and that the occupation of the preacher will soon be gone. I answered that people are not learning to think for themselves, but are employing and encouraging the newspaper to do their thinking for them. Your editorial is an expression of the same sentiment. This might not prove so vicious in its results were not journalism a business profession and the newspaper a business enterprise dependent for success upon public patronage. To be profitable a newspaper must be read; to be read it must be popular; to be popular it must find out what the people want and give it to them. A journal cannot fix a literary standard very far above the literary standard of its readers; if it do this it throws its subscription list into the hands of its less scrupulous and popular rivals. This is seen in the fact that few, if any, of our institutions the fact that few, if any, of our institutions of the highest learning are self-supporting; all of them must be heavily endowed if they are to employ the best talent upon their staff of professors. The desire for the highest education is not general enough to bring our colleges and universities under the head of business enterprise.

It is possible, however, for our newspapers to do much to cultivate a higher standard by encouraging true thought standard by encouraging true thought wherever it is found and by holding stead-ily before its patrons a high standard of reading and amusement. But so long as newspapers "write up" the nine-tenths of theatrical performances, which are either positively vicious or utterly worthless, with quite as much emphasis as they report the one truth which is morally and intellectually elevating; so long as the great blanket sheets that now appeal to the spirit of sen-sationalism that is abroad, sedulously cultivating that spirit as business enterprise the task of a few journals of higher taste is almost hopeless. Moreover this tendency to superficial thought is not manifest in journalism alone; it is becoming alarmingly prevalent in what have been known always as the 'learned professions." How many people to-day ever inquire of a physician if he possess a degree from a college or university? I believe the time is not far distant when our medical societies will be com-pelled to admit to fellowship no practitioner who has not behind his medical course a thorough collegiate and academic education. And may I be pardoned if remind a thinking public that to-day the only profession which is making a strenuous demand in this direction is the profession of the ministry? May I say that there are men who stigmatize the preacher as ignorant and superstitious who could not secure a degree from one of the larger theological seminaries of the land because the ground condition of entrance there is a degree from some reputable college? Andover and New Haven, and I doubt not Union, Princeton and others receive no applicants who have not had thorough academic or collegiate training. This demand is due, no doubt, somewhat to the fact that theological studies are largely metaphysical and can be grasped only by a mind trained in the principle of psycho ogy as taught in our colleges and universities. But I heard Professor Howison say before the young men of Cooper Medical College that the only thing which can save physicians from materialism is a solid basis of thought in the great principles of

I trust that I shall not be accused of malicious criticism if I hint that our lawyers would have infinitely less temptation to resort to trickery in the pursuit of their noble calling were the shysters and petti-foggers weeded out of their ranks by the demand that no man is worthy admission to the bar in this age of learning who has not prefaced his study of law by thorough collegiate and academic work. of science and philosophy, which so largely pervades the curriculum of the college today, can alone develop the mind to take high rank in the learned professions whenever there shall come the inevitable reaction from this superficial craze for knowledge so broad that it cannot be deep. That reaction will surely come. Half-educated ministers, doctors, lawyers, scientists and all, will have their day. This age of egotism which affects to find satisfaction in a few isolated facts, which they can neither analyze nor systematize, will pass, and men will demand the credentials of every dogmatist in theology, law or med-

It is the glory of the ministry to-day that its institutions demand the highest instruc tion to be obtained in the world. It demands investigation and pursues it. Science discovers the great facts of nature, but it is the metaphysician who brings them into philosophical systems and discovers in them the relations they bear to theology and religion. And in the extracts from a recent sermon which you were pleased to publish attacking a faith, nor am I in the least de preciating the popular intelligence of the day. I am simply combatting the spirit that would cater to the superficial egotism abroad, which seeks to dis credit Christianity upon assertions unsupported by indisputable facts. I would not for much give the impression that I favor an establishment in religion which shall tell its adherents what they shall believe and what they shall eschew. simply claim that the educated thought of the pulpit is worthy of a hearing; that educated pulpit thought to-day does not advocate one fact which has not a basis in accord with the data of reason; that so long as the authors of some of our greatest text-books in geology and biology are humble Christian men, who accept the facts of revealed religion and the correctthe popular idea that a few facts, or supposed facts, of science, gathered from our newspapers, are as useful as a thorough ship involved. It is not wisdom that will endure for men to claim that these great questions of re-vealed religion are settled on the side of know, that they are the most living quesing fought out upon moderately liberal and not on the former radical grounds. It is not the part of intelligence to befog the minds of the populace with books like "Robert Elsmere," when the great question of German study to day lies far back of that as touching the primal question: "Is God a personal Being or an impersona force?" And so long as liberal Christianity is Christian, stands by the scholarship of the day, announces facts that are no longer disputed by the world's great scholars, does not proclaim an individual wish as a universally conceded fact, remains true to its mission to discriminate fairly between the human and the divine in Scripture and in life, it will find no foe in conservative faith. If it insists upon defining miracle as contrary to nature, and persists in de-claring that Christianity depends on the miracles as proof of the divinity of Christ, it will not be considered as occupying its legitimate field. God immanent is a term long in use in modern theology; God in all things is surely the meaning of omnipresent. The great stress that was once laid upon miracles was due to the emphasis of the conception that God is more an objective power, who once upon a time created this little world, determined all its functions and set them going, but has had to come in now and then to tighten a screw or adjust a cog in order to keep His creation from wreck and rain. When men understand that what scientists call persistence of force is only a scientific term for the immanence of God, they will find less difficulty in believing that as, confessedly, there is much of mystery because beyond the realm of knowledge, so there may be much of mystery within the realm of knowledge; and if there be a God who can create a heart which longs for a revelation, it is reasonably possible that He has found a way to give that heart a revelation

For myself, I do not hesitate to say but that the miraculous in Scripture I accept, that it has had practically no influence upon my mind in determining my belief. And if any one will take the pains to examine the published sermons of great preachers, he will be astonished to find that they rarely dwell upon the so-called miracles of Scripture. It is the great body of moral

SANITARY INSPECTOR STARR MAKES HIS ANNUAL TOUR.

He Finds the Place in Tolerably Fair Condition-Still, It is a Real

For the past two days Sanitary and Building Inspector A. H. Starr has been making a house-to-house inspection of Chinatown, thoroughly examining all of the rooms, cellars and dark nooks and corners in the houses occupied by the Chinese on I street, from Second to Fifth. This tour is made once a year, and occupants of houses who do not understand the English language are given a circular, on which is printed the health ordinance in Chinese characters. Although the general inspection is made but annually it is not the only time the Inspector visits the premises. Probably a couple of times a week he takes a look into the different yards and notifies the owners to have them cleaned if decaying matter is found in them. The examination just made, how-ever, was quite thorough, and each build-ing was inspected from the cellar to the upper story. The network of tunnels and alley-ways in the basements was traversed, and with the aid of a lantern and candle looked through. A RECORD-UNION reporter accompanied Mr. Starr, and they met with no resistance from the Chinamen occupying the houses. They all appeared to know the reason of the visit, and willingly showed the Inspector around. A year ago, however, the state of affairs was different when the examination was being made. The Chinese were then suspicious, and very reluctant about permitting the officer to go through their houses. In many cases they offered such resistance that force had to be used against them, and the work was not only difficult but dangerous. While passing through one of the dark, narrow passages that abound in that quarter, it would be an easy matter for a Chinaman to suddenly open one of the doors and knock any person senseless.

After the first few houses were visited and the object learned by the occupants, the news spread all through Chinatown and it was probably not more than a half hour before every Chinaman knew of it. Chinatown is not such a filthy place as people generally imagine. To be sure, there are rooms in the cellars where even the faintest ray of daylight is never visible, but yet there are no foul-smelling odors noticeable, save, perhaps, the fumes of the opium-pipe or the smoke of Chinese tobacco. The ceilings and walls in the cellars are blackened by smoke from the kitchen, but the doctors claim that to this fact is due the comparatively small amount of disease among the inhabitants. Most of the yards are kept clean, but there are some which need the attention of a scavenger. Note was taken of these, and the owners of the property will be notified to remove the objectionable matter. Some of the vaults were found to be in a filthy condition, and if not soon cleaned arrests will be made. The system of drainage, although not the best in the world, is quite good. In some of the basements the sipage water is above the flooring, and in such cases passageways are made with planks and boxes, so that the different bedrooms can be reached, and once in his couch, the Chinaman does not appear to care for sur-roundings, provided the water does not way, and the wonder is that fires are not more frequent. Beneath the sidewalks there are sleeping rooms, store houses and kitchens, and space that is not used for some purpose is hard to find. Old baskets, sacks, wood, etc., are stowed away in dark Commencing at Second and I streets, on the southeast corner, the examination was begun and the first place entered was a cellar, the door of which was bolted. The place had been deserted on account of the sipage water, and cloths were tacked on the doors and windows. These were torn away and the interior of the place was inspected. The rooms were all vacan with the exception of one, and in pushing aside a piece of matting which hung over the doorway, a Chinaman was discovere sleeping on a bed, the bottom of which was just out of water. He was awakened, and in answer to questions said that he was sick (a statement that seemed to be true, judging from the nature of his sur-roundings and the stench arising from decayed matter in the sipage water). He further stated that he would go out by-andby and get something to eat, and the Inspector left him there. He was afterwards seen on the street.

The houses where the tan games and lotteries are run, were all open, with the exception of one or two, by the time the Inspector arrived to examine them. The tables were bare and hardly a Chinaman could be seen anywhere in the houses. There was one place, however, which must not have been aware of the approach of the party, but the door was slammed and locked in an instant when the officer and reporter had got within a few feet of it. In about three minutes it was opened and the occupants had mysteriously vanished.

A bell-cord was noticeable outside the door of one of the tan houses, but the wily heathens did not "sabee" what it was for at all. While passing into a hallway leading to one of the gambling rooms, the reporter noticed a bolt on the outside of the door nearest the street, and arriving at the door at the other end of the passage, found it fastened by a lock on the inside. He naturally wondered for a moment why both locks were not on the inside, but suddenly remembered the incident which happened recently while officer Rowland was trying to capture a Chinaman in a place similar to this. The officer had entered door No. 1, but on reaching the exit door other end found it locked. He rushed back to the first door and, to his dismay, found that it had been pulled to and bolted after he had entered. He was kept imprisoned in the hallway until the Chinamen had time to secrete themselves, and then suddenly one of the doors flew open and he walked out, considerably sadder and a great deal wiser.

In the row of houses on the north side o I street, between Second and Third, there are one or two degraded white women who live in rooms in the cellars, with only Chinese for companions. Several of the cesspools in this block are in bad condition, and the property owners should be made to cleanse them before the warm weather sets in.

Mr. Starr claims that, as a whole, the sanitary condition of Chinatown is quite satisfactory, but admits that there are cer tain places that require constant inspection

The cases of Pete Green and John Phillips, charged with robbery, were continued until to-day. The reason the continuance was requested was on account of the absence of the prosecuting witness, who claimed that he had been swindled by the defendants. He was nowhere to be found when the cases were called in Court, al-though shortly before 10 o'clock he was seen down stairs at the station-house. Green, one of the defendants, asked the Court that he either be tried or dis-charged. He said he had been incarcerated in jail three or four days, and didn't think it right that he should be kept in a cell while the officers were searching for a rosecuting witness, who had fled and was afraid to state his case in Court. Judge Buckley made an order continuing the case, and meantime releasing Green on

THE PAINE BREAK.

Sharp Telegram Sent to the Delegation in Washington. Dr. G. M. Wm. Johnston, Chairman California River Improvement Delegation, Washington, D. C.: The Paine break shows a depth of channel two feet below low-water mark. Sacramento river steamboat men and all interested in navigation are justly alarmed. Nearly four months since Congress released the $110,000 to close the break. No work yet done, and the situation is constantly growing more serious. No dever oreak. No work yet done, and the situation is constantly growing more serious. No danger now of floods by closing break. Slow action of local representatives of War Department sharply criticised by indignant and suffering public. If the break is closed in forty days the river channel will be scoured out, the threatened total loss of navigation averted and suffering farmers enabled to make crops this season. Have delegation see War Department promptly, and urge immediate action. Answer.

HIS PROPOSITION,

An adjourned meeting of citizens was held at the City Board of Trade rooms last evening to consider the proposition recently made by Fund Commissioner Beatty, under which the Commission might lend the city certain sums of money for improvement purposes. Several more gentlemen having come in Chairman Dray repeated the purpose for which the meeting was called: "Shall the meeting agree to adopt the plan proposed by Judge Beatty for the eliminating of the Suggestions were asked for as to the probable needs of the city in the way of improvements, and Mr. Lindley replied that about $20,000 would do all that the city would be called upon to do this year. Ex-Mayor Gregory explained, in reply to a question, that the excess of this year's taxes over those of last years was for street repairs, levees and drainage purposes. Mr. Heilbron thought it useless to expend any money in smoothing the surface of the streets, as they become just as bad every winter.

Dr. Simmons, F. D. Ryan and others took issue with Mr. Heilbron, claiming that the streets were never in such a bad condition as at present. Speaking to the question before the meeting, C. L. White moved that the meeting decide that the Beatty plan be not advantageous to the city.

C. E. Grunsky said he would second the motion unless Judge Beatty should so modify his proposition that the Fund Commodify his proposition that the Funds of mission should take five per cent. bonds of the city in lieu of its present funds, and agree to keep possession of the same and not dispose of them to outside parties. Judge Beatty said he had come satisfied that his proposition, although the best that could be offered, had aroused a bitter nostility in certain quarters and brought only abuse upon himself. Men ignorant of the bonded debt question had raised false issues calculated to reflect upon his (Beatty's) good sense and integrity, and he would now withdraw it, and allow the city to raise its funds for improvement purposes outside the Funded Debt Commisthat the records of eighteen years showed that no Board of Trustees had ever agreed with Judge Beatty. Mr. Gregory held that Judge Beatty was more deeply interested in the operations of the Commission than in the success of the city's affairs. Mr. dregory went on to explain the unfairness of the several propositions made by Judge Beatty to the Trustees. While Mayor he had several interviews with Meyer, one of the bondholders, and suggested a settletive Committee of the California River ment on a 75 per cent. basis, but he laughed at it, saying that the bondholders had a better thing with the Bond Commis-William Johnston, Chairman of the dele- after the city had won a certain case sion, which paid them better prices. White introduced a resolution covering the same ground but omitting any eference to the Funded Debt Commission and requesting the Trustees to submit the question to a vote of the people—in other words, for the issuance of bonds. A. P. Catlin spoke in favor of the proposition. He said the bonds would readily be taken by capitalists. There never was

It was almost certain the ommission. Courts would hold that the Commission could not loan any money on new city bonds, as its powers were limited to certain acts. At least, there would be so much doubt about it that nobody would take them from the Commission. city could sell her own bonds readily: and ven though outsiders did not want them he was sure there was public spirit enough among the citizens of Sacramento to induce them to take such bonds themselves Mr. Catlin then went into an explanation regarding the effect of late Supreme court decisions upon the interest-bearing value of bonds and coupons. He held that if the city had done its duty the debt would have been wiped out before this. The Funded Debt Commission had been in existence for eighteen years and yet, according to the Commission's own state ment, the city still owes the same amount of indebtedness. The taxes that have been raised for the Funded Debt Commission, he said, would, if paid into the sinking fund with the taxes that should have been paid into that fund by the city during the time it was not done (some seventeen years), the city could have redeemed its debt by advertising for bonds from time to Mr. Catlin spoke at considerable length on the subject. Fresno, he said, only five rears old, had borrowed $100,000 and put t on her streets. Instead of voting $25,000. Sacramento should put at least $50,000 into treet improvements.

At this juncture, and before Mr. Catlin nad concluded his remarks, Trustees Mc-Laughlin and Wolfe withdrew.

Mr. Grunsky indorsed Mr. Catlin's re-marks, and said he had no doubt the bonds would be readily taken. Mr. Coleman moved as a substitute for the question before the meeting, that the Trustees be requested to call an election to determine if the city would vote $100,000 in 5 per cent. bonds, for street improvements, to be sold and the money expended only as required. Mr. C. L. White thought that $100,000 was none too much, but some of it should be used for sewerage and water extension purposes, and he believed it would be well to have the recommendation cover these

Mr. Luhrs said the streets most needed the money, and Mr. McClatchy and Dr. Simmons also spoke in favor of restricting this money to permanent street improve-ments, to the extent of one-fourth of the total cost.

As amended, the motion was adopted. Mr. McClatchy then asked the meeting his resignation on account of removal from Commission, with a view to possibly improving its personnel, which gave rise to a prelonged debate.

[SPRCIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD-UNION.]

CENTRAL AMERICA. Internal Improvements and New Lines of Coast Steamers. Washington, April 10th.—Dispatches received by the Costa Rican Minister to the United States state that the Congress of that republic will at its session in June of this year ratify the provisional treaty of union between the five republics of Central America. Thus far three of the republics have confirmed the action of their representatives in the assenting to such treaty, Guatemala, Henduras and Salvador falling into line, and Nicaragua is expected to imitate their example when the opportunity is afforded

According to the first article the Central American Diet, convened by the respective Covernments of Central America, proclaims the political unification of the States of Central America under the title of the republic of Central America. This republic will be represented by a General Government, at the head of which will be one of the Presidents of five States of the matter is disposed of he would ask the Senat to take up and complete the Chinese enumers

It being of the greatest importance to promote and stimulate by all possible means facilities for transportation and communication between the States, the Ceneral Government will authorize bridge-building across rivers, increase of telegraph lines and establishment of telephones. A premium of $70,000 er more will be paid for the first steamship company, national or foreign, to establish in the Pacific service four steamers, each of 500 tons capacity between Central American ports, Acapulca and Panama, under conditions and tariffs previously stipulated.

From September 15, 1890, traffic between the States of Central America will be entirely free, so far as products and manufactures are concerned, but privileged goods and those of unlawful trade cannot be im-

tional Importance. WASHINGTON, April 10th .- The Pan-American Conference to-day adopted the report of the majority of the Committee on the Customs Union with but three dissenting votes—the Argentine Republic, Chile and Paraguay. The report recommends, in substance, that the reciprocity treaties be negotiated between the several republics, each making concessions, that the peculiar products of all may be introduced free into the others. The Committee on Port Dues reported that it is impracticable to completely abolish the charges now imposed on vessels. and made recommendations as follows, which were adonted .

That all port dues be merged in a single one to be known as tonnage dues. This charge to be assessed upon the total carrying capacity of the vessel. Each Government to fix for itself the amount to be charged, but with due regard to the general policy of the Conference upon the subject, which is to facilitate and favor navigation. That there be excepted dues charged, or to charged, under the unexpired contracts with private companies. That the following be exempt from tonnage dues: Transports and vessels of war, vessels of less than twenty-five tons, vessels which shall have been compelled to put into port by reason of damages suffered at sea, yachts and other pleasure boats.

The conference, at the time of adjourn-ment, had under consideration the report of the Committee on Banking. It says the future development of commercial relations will depend as largely upon the de velopment of international banking facilities as on any other single condition.

The foreign commerce of the West Indies, Mexico, South and Central America last year amounted to $100,855,450 in United States gold coin. Total exchanges of commodities between the United States and the countries south aggregated $282. 902,408. Foreign banks reaped the profit of the commission of three-fourths per cent. on a large proportion of these sums, which, together with the interest and differences in exchange, might be saved to the several countries. The report recommends the passage of a law by the United States, incorporating an International American Bank with ample capital, with a privilege on the part of the citizens of the several countries in the conference to take shares in such bank pro rata to their foreign commerce. The bank should have no power to emit circulating bank notes, but should as a railroad switchman. have all other powers now enjoyed by the National Banks of the United States as to deposit and discount, issuing letters of credit, making loans, etc., and generally to do whatever can already be done by the great banking firms who are carrying on the business under the laws of general The report recommends to the Govern-

WASHINGTON, April 10th .- First Lieutenant J. V. S. Paddock, of the Eifth Cavalry. was recently tried by a Court-martial at Fort Leavenworth, Kansza, on a charge of having duplicated his pay accounts. Records of the proceedings and the findings in the case have been acted upon by the reviewing officers of the War Department, and the case has been submitted to the President for action. It is assumed from this action that the Court found the officer guilty of the charge and sentenced him to dismissal from the service.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Washington, April 10th.—In the Senate, to-day, among the bills reported from the commit-tee and p aced on the calendar, were the fol-lowing: The Senate bill appropriating $2,348, 000 for the improvement of the Columbia river, Oregon, the expenditures not to exceed $700, 000 in one year, the House bill to aid vessels disabled in waters coterminous to the United abled in waters coterminous to the United States and Canada; the Senate bill to revive th grade of the Lieutenant-General of the army.

The President pro tem. (Ingalls) remarked that he was in error yesterday in allowing the motion to take up the Chinese-enumeration bill while the Montana election case was undispendent of ithe the best of the control of the contro posed of, either by being postponed, laid aside informally, or other action.

Hale then informed the Chair that the rules in the Montana case is to proceed until completed. Hale gave notice that as soon as the Montan confederation, the choice to be determined by lot.

From September 15, 1890, when the General Government will begin its functions, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua and Salvador will abandon the titles of republics and take the denomination of States of the Republic of Central America.

It being of the greatest importance to dressed the Senate at some length. Sherman said he found all the facts sufficient ly stated in the minority report to control his judgment. He read three paragraphs from the minority report, and said it was apparent there from that as to the five Representatives from Silver Bow county neither set had certificate according to form. The Senate of Montans was a tie, and in the House there were 25 Reputlican members and 24 Democratic members about whose picks to exact the service members. about whose rights to seats there was no question. There was, therefore, a Republican majority on joint ballot, or if a contest over Silver Bow county had come to be decided by the House, there was a majority on the Republican side, by which the Republican contestants could have been seated. These simple facts, he thought, contained all the elements of a just decision in the matter, and showed the Republican claimants for seats in the Senate had a majority in the House without any reference to the members from Silver Bow county.

Edmunds and Eustis had a brief personal tilt about whose rights to seats there was no que Edmunds and Eustis had a brief personal tilt based on Edmunds' remarks made a couple of weeks ago. Eustis then argued on the Montana matter. Sherman asked whether twenty-five Republican members of the House did not constitute a majority of that body. Eustis admitted that, I umerically, twenty-five was more than twenty-four, but added that twenty-five did not make a quorum, and in the constitutional meaning twenty-five was not a larger number than twenty-four, as the quorum was twenty-eight.

The question having been proposed by Kenna as to whether forty Senators with unquestioned Edmunds and Eustis had a brief personal til as to whether forty Senators with unquestioned credentials (forty-two being a quorum) could go to work and organize and pass upon the credentials of the other forty-two, whose title was questioned, Hoar said he would like to think over it. That was precisely, Kenna said, the question that presented itself in the Montana case. Partial personnes to the question were case. Partial responses to the question wer made by several Senators, but Kenna said none of them came straight to the point. Adjourned

IN THE HOUSE Washington, April 10th.—The House this morning went into Committee of the Whole on the naval appropriation bill.

Peters moved to strike out the entire clause Peters moved to strike out the entire clause for the increase of the navy. He believed the United States had no need of battleships and possessed all the cruisers that it required.

Caunon said he did not know much about the navy, but nevertheless he began to suspect he knew as much as the experts on the floor. He had watched the naval progress and feared those ships proposed to be built would become obsolete before their completion. He believed in a small, compact and powerful navy, including the best type of vessels, but the Navy Department had reported that the Maine and Texas, now building, would never be duplicated. He was lost in the conflicting opinions of experts.

cated. He was lost in the conflicting opinions of experts.

Kerr of Iowa said he represented a district in which there resided many Quakers, who sent him numerous petitions requesting him to vote against the appropriation to increase the navy. They know this preparation for warfare was in the direction of war with foreign countries.

After further debate, Colman moved to strike out the paragraph providing for three battle-ships; but leaving in the provision for an armed cruiser. Agreed to,

Adams of Illinois offered an amendment providing for three low, free-board coast and harriding for three low, free-board coast and har-por defense vessels of the monitor type at a cost toot to exceed $2,500,000 each. Lost. Peters then withdrew his motion to strike out he entire clause.

The bill was then favorably reported to the ouse, but no final action was taken and the House adjourned. BRIEF NOTES.
